STREET PARKING REMINDERS

Parking on the street, while sometimes a necessity can also present several challenges for first responders, school buses, street sweepers and in some cases be an eyesore for your neighbors.

In order to protect our residential neighborhoods, there are several regulations regarding street parking to keep in mind. Drivers cannot park on streets for more than 72 consecutive hours. Additionally, habitual parking in front of property that you do not own or occupy or impeding entry or exit to a private driveway is unlawful. Finally, vehicles that are inoperable, unlicensed or have out-of-date registration may be considered “junk vehicles” and could be towed at the owners expense.
